OUR DEAD PRESIDENT

The Funeral Progress Westward.

WESTFIELD, N. Y., Friday, April 28, 1865.

The remains of Abraham Lincoln arrived here at 1 o'clock this morning. The bells were tolled, and minute-guns were fired.

SECOND DISPATCH.

CLEVELAND, Friday, April 28, 1865.

All along the route from Buffalo to this city, which was reached this morning, the usual demonstrations of sorrow were witnessed. The remains were escorted by a large military and civic procession to a beautifully constructed temple prepared to receive them, and soon thereafter the face of the honored dead was open to the thousands of spectators, who, in admirable order, entered and retired from the inclosure.

The entire population of this city are abroad, all seemingly impressed with the solemnity of the occasion.

THIRD DISPATCH.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Friday, April 28, 1865.

On the way to Cleveland, leaving Buffalo at 10:10 p. m. Thursday night, we successively passed Hamburgh, North Evans, Angola, Farnham, Irving and Silver Creek. At all the stations the immediate residents had assembled, some bearing lanterns and mourning flags in their hands, while on their houses were plainly discernible the usual drapery and mottoes expressive of the prevailing grief.

DUNKIRK.

12:10.—Here, as at the preceding stations, the platform is elaborately decorated. Festoons of evergreens extend all along the eaves of the structure, while from the ceiling gracefully droop white and black folds. The background covered with flags, interlaced with crape, completes the artistical arrangement. But the chief feature is the group of 36 young ladies representing the States of the Union. They are dressed in white, each a brood, black scarf resting on the shoulder, and holding in the hand a National flag. We have a fine view of this tableaux by the glare of more than a 100 lamps and torches. The crowd here is dense. The tooling of bells, the solemn music of an instrumental band, and the firing of minute guns, contribute to the interest of the scene.

BRACTON.

12:30.—Many spectators are congregated here, and the place is illuminated.

WESTFIELD.

1 A. M.—We stop here for wood and water. A party of five ladies—namely, Mrs. Drake, wife of Col. Drake, killed at Cold Harbor; Mrs. Brewer, Mrs. Skinner and the Misses Tucker—brought in a cross and a wreath of flowers. On the cross were the words: "Ours the cross; thine the crown." All of them were affected to tears, and considered it a sacred privilege to kiss the coffin.

THE STATE LINE.

Ripley has been passed, and now (1:32) we are at the line which separates New-York from Pennsylvania. Major-Gen. Dix and staff took leave of us, and E. F. Farrar, Mayor of Erie, George W. Starr, F. B. Vincent, E. P. Bennett, J. T. Walsher, and Capt. F. A. Roe, U. S. N., came on board.

Here Miss Leonora Crawford, aged 12 years, presented a cross and wreath with the words "Rest in peace" attached. The scene was illuminated by a large bonfire and Chinese lanterns.

We pass Moreheads, Harbor Creek and Westerville, at all of which places crowds had assembled, manifesting unabated interest.

ERIE.

2:50—There was no particular demonstration at this place.

The employés running this train are the same who were on the train who brought the late President to this point while on his way to Washington, just previous to his first inauguration.

Swanville, Firview, Gerard, and Sprinfield are passed.

CONNEANT.

3:48—We are now in Ohio, and hurrying on through Kingsville, Ashtabula, Saybrook, Geneva, Unionville, Madison, Perry, Painesville, Menter, and Willoughby. The depot buildings are draped and large numbers of people are at these places assembled. Minute guns are fired and bells tolling.

WICKLIFFE.

6:20.—The following gentlemen here came on board: Gov. Brough and Staff, consisting of the following named officers: Gen. Cowen, Adjutant-General; Gen. Barlow, Quartermaster-General; Surgeon-General Barr, and Col. Maxwell. Also Major-Gen. Hooker, commanding the Department of the Ohio, with his Staff, as follows: Col. Swords, Lieut.-Col. Simpson, Lieut. Col. Lathrop, Major McFeely, Major Bannister, and Capt. Taylor. Also, U. S. Senator Sherman, the Hon. S. Galloway, the Hon. O. Waters, and Major Montgomers. Also the following named gentlemen to meet the remains: the Hon. R. R. Spaulding, ex-Gov. David Tod, Thomas Jones, jr., Col. Anson Stager, Amasa Stone, jr., the Hon. H. B. Payne, the Hon. John A. Foot, the Hon. H. V. Wilson, Stillman Witt, Ansel Roberts, Wm. Bingham, the Hon. W. B. Castle, Chas. Hickox, John Martin, the Hon. W. Collins, H. N. Johnson, Dr. G. C. E. Weber, Dr. Proctor Thayer, H. B. Hurlbut, Jacob Hovey, and James Warsick.

CLEVELAND, 7 A. M.

As we pass the Lake side of the city thousands of persons are gathered on the sloping green hillside, all having a good view of the train. High up we see an arch with the inscription, "Abraham Lincoln." It is draped in mourning, and the supports are covered with alternate stripes of black and white. Immediately under the arch is a lady dressed in horizontal bars of the national colors, to represent the genius of Liberty. She holds in her hand a flag, and this, together with her cap, is bandaged with mourning. It is a laudable and expressive figure.

All places of business are closed. Colors are displayed at half-mast. A national salute of 36 guns is fired, and half hour guns will be fired till sunset. We proceed to Euclid-st. station in the cars. This is the point where Mr. Lincoln embarked for Washington just previous to his first inauguration; and here the procession was formed.

The coffin was placed in a hearse, the roofing of which was covered with the national flag, with black plumes, and otherwise tastefully and appropriately adorned. The military escort embraced Major-Gen. Hooker on staff, and Gov. Brough of Ohio and staff, and the civic escort of civic guard of honor was followed by the U. S. civil officers, veteran soldiers, members of the City Council and City officers of Cleveland and other cities, members of the Bar, the Board of Trade, Knights Templars, the Orders of Masons and Odd Fellows, Temperance Societies, Fenian Brotherhood, St. Vincent's Society, the German Benevolent Society, the Equal Rights League, &c., and all the benevolent and other associations, and citizens on foot, a multitude of them.

THE PROCESSION.

The procession embraced all conditions of the people, without distinction of party and religion, and it presented a decidedly pure appearance, as it moved through the streets of this truly beautiful city from Euclid-st. to Erie, down Erie to Superior, and thence to the park.

The sidewalks were densely crowded with mournful looking spectators, while thousands of persons beheld the cortege from the steps and windows of the beautiful residences which line the entire route. Emblems of mourning where everywhere prominent together with expressive mottoes.

THE ARRANGEMENTS.

Every stranger is loud in his expressions of admiration of the splendid order of the arrangements.

In the park has been erected a building especially for the reception of the remains, to which they have now been conveyed. The building is 24 by 36 feet in dimensions, and 14 feet high from the ground to the plate. The roof is of pagoda style, and the rafters are covered with white cloth over the centre of the main roof, and directly over the catafalque a second roof is raised about four feet, and covered in like manner.

The catafalque consists of a raised dais four by twelve feet on the ground. The coffin rests on this dais about two feet above the floor. On the four corners stand columns supporting a canopy. The columns have been draped and wreathed with evergreens and white flowers in the most beautiful manner. Black cloth falling as curtains and fringed with silver, are caught and loaped back to these columns. From the center of the canopy the floor and sides of the dais all covered with black cloth, drooping from the four corners, bordered with silver fringe; and the borders of the cornice are brilliantly ornamented with white rosettes and stars of silver.

The inside of the canopy is lined with black cloth gathered in folds, and white and black crape serves as plumage for the posts. At the corners of the catafalque in the center is a large star of black velvet, with 36 stars, one for each State in the Union. The floor of the dais is covered with flowers, and a figure of the Goddess of Liberty is placed at the head of the coffin. The ceiling of the building is hung with beautiful festoons of evergreen and flowers and white.

The four posts which sustain on either side the pagoda roof are hung with large rosettes of mingled evergreen and magnolias of two varieties. Appropriate drapery hangs from the cornice of the building, and swings from pillar to pillar of the fairy structure. Glass lamps have been attached to the pillars of the catafalque and to other points of the building, so that the remains can be easily seen at night and to good advantage.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

The religious services, after the remains had been placed upon the dais, were performed by the Right Rev. Bishop McIlvaine, who, in the course of his prayer, asked the blessing of heaven on the immediate family of the deceased, and a sanctification of the event which had called the nation to mourn to the good of him who had succeeded to the Chief Magistracy. He then read a part of the funeral service of the Episcopal Church, slightly altering the text to suit the occasion, and moved many of the listeners to tears.

The remains were then exposed to public view. The arrangements are so perfect that every one who desires to see them will have no difficulty in being gratified. It is raining here to-day, but this is no impediment to the throngs passing to the Park.

Cleveland has made a demonstration worthy of her citizens. Their sad countenances attest stronger than words the heavy grief which affects all hearts.

LATER.

9 p. m.—The number who witnessed the remains of the President during the day was 180 a minute. Two rows of spectators were constantly passing—one on each side of the coffin. The lid was freshly covered with flowers in the form of harps, crosses and bouquets gathered in the hot-houses of Cleveland, and laid upon the coffin by ladies representing the Soldiers' Relief Association.

THE CORTEGE.

The funeral party were the guests of the corporate authorities. They were quartered at the Weddell House. A more liberal and friendly greeting could not have been extended.

CHICAGO.

Charles L. Wilson of Chicago, on behalf of a committee of 100 was here to-day to extend the hospitalities of that city. The committee is to proceed to Michigan City to meet the remains and will escort them to Springfield. The display at Chicago will be the largest ever known in that city. Forty-one organizations and societies, numbering 25,000 men, have already reported to the Chief Marshal.

LEAVING CLEVELAND.

At midnight we leave Cleveland and will arrive at Columbus to-morrow morning. Everywhere deep sorrow has been manifested, and the feeling seems if possible to deepen as we move westward with the remains to their final resting place.

GOV. BROUGH.

Gov. Brough to-night extended the hospitalities of his residence to the funeral party.

THE ASSASSINATION.

Our Special Account.

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Friday, April 28, 1865.

Edwin Booth is here for the purpose, it is stated, of procuring the body of his brother. His desire cannot be granted, as the grave of the assassin will never be known.

The surgeons who held the autopsy upon Booth assert that he must have endured untold anguish of body, as well as of mind, from the nature of the fracture of his leg, the small bone having cut its way through the flesh, and protruded.

Mortification of the leg had also commenced, and it was the opinion of the Surgeon-General that he could not have lived many days more in any event. This may account in part for the horrid expression of countenance and the general repulsiveness of the corpse.

Associated Press Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Friday, April 28, 1865.

The excitement which prevailed in this city yesterday has considerably subsided. While all regret that the assassin, owing to the rashness among the soldiers engaged in the capture, was not taken alive, they at the same time felt grateful that the murderer had paid the penalty of his crime. Had he been brought to the Washington Navy-Yard alive, nothing could have withstood the fury of the excited congregated thousands.

What disposition was made of Booth's body after the autopsy upon it, is impossible to ascertain, but that a fitting disposal, in keeping with his ignominious career was made, is certain.

The public breathe more freely, as the great burden which has been on their minds for two weeks has been removed.

Harrold, who has been exhibiting great stoicism since his capture, now appears to seem to realize the awful position in which he is placed, and through the day has given way to frequent fits of weeping. He is quite young, and his appearance would indicate him to be not over 20. Some time ago he was an applicant for the position of surgeon's steward on the Potomac flotilla, but was unsuccessful.

Very great curiosity prevails as to the disposition to be made of the remains of Booth; but it seems the authorities are not inclined to give the wretched carcass the honor of meeting the public gaze, and it will probably be deposited in whatever place promises the most utter obscurity for them. Yesterday a photographic view of the body was taken before it was removed from the monitor. It was then placed in an ordinary gray army blanket, in which it was sewed up. A plain casket-shaped box, measuring six feet by two, had been previously made in the joiners shop for the remains, but it was not used.

Suicide in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Friday, April 28, 1865.

A well-known citizen of Baltimore committed suicide last Monday, a short distance from this city, by shooting himself with a pistol. No cause could be assigned for the rash act except that he had recently seemed depressed and melancholy.

Subsequent events have induced the suspicion that he was in some way implicated in the conspiracy, and last night the body was exhumed, embalmed, and sent to Washington by orders of the Government.

The affair causes much speculation, and there are many reports in connection with it as well as some facts, which it is deemed imprudent to publish at present.

The Body of Booth.

CINCINNATI, Friday, April 28, 1865.

At a public meeting at Dayton yesterday it was resolved that the body of Booth be taken to mid-ocean and there buried.

Gold, at close of report, 146⅛.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, April 27, 1865.

Arrived Pacific mail steamer Constitution, from Panama, with the passengers and mails that left New-York, April 3.

Sailed ship Fearless, Manilla; ship Emille, Hong-Kong, with $120,000 in treasure. No concern is felt for Chinese treasure remittances as they are made now under neutral flags.

Legal tenders have fallen here within a day or two from 72 to 69½. There were but few offerings.

ST. ALBAN'S FAIR.—The Bazaar in aid of the Building Fund of St. Alban's Church, which has been open for the past few days at Irving Hall, closes to-day. Grafulla's Band furnishes the music for the Promenade Concert this evening.

THE DIFFERENCE.—A pair of boots is exhibited to us, the property of a Vermonter just from Richmond, which boots, before the surrender of Gen. Lee, would have cost $750, Confederate currency. The present proprietor paid for them $14, in greenbacks.

Washington dispatches report the subscription of $10,000 by Marshall O. Roberts of New-York to the fund for the late President's family. It is now proposed to increase the fund to $500,000.

Publishers, Nos. 119 and 121 Nassau-st., N. Y.

A COLD is easily taken in this changeable climate of ours, and without due care another will be contracted on top of it, one cold thus running into another, until the accompanying Cough becomes settled and confirmed, straining and racking the lungs, and ultimately stimulating the production of tubercles. A majority of existing cases of clearly defined Pulmonary Disease may thus be accounted for, and thousands are now carelessly allowing themselves to drift through the preliminary symptoms, under the fatal delusion that they are troubled with nothing but a cold. How obvious is it, then, that a cold should be taken care of from its incipiency, and no effort spared to rid the system of its effects. A curative readily obtainable, and of established reputation, can be found in JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT, and by its use all fears of dangerous results will soon be dissipated. Where the danger is so imminent, why not resort at once to the standard remedy?

IT OPERATES LIKE MAGIC.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, for children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays all pain. Sure to regulate the bowels. Perfectly safe in all cases, as millions of mothers can testify.

Thirty-five cents a bottle. Offices, No. 48 Dey-st., New-York, and No. 205 High Holborn, London, England.

SPRING OPENING IN HATS.—KNOX, the hatter, at the corner of Broadway and Fulton-st., announces himself as ready to open with all the Spring styles in HATS, CAPS, &c. Some of these are decidedly novel, and will undoubtedly have a run. Those who desire to be in advance of the fashion can do so by purchasing of KNOX, who seems to be ahead of all competitors, with the newest styles for Spring.

GRACE BEFORE MEAT, as the lady said who bought a new dress with her marketing money. Badinage apart every lady should wear a graceful SPRING HAT, and if she knows where to go, the tax on her purse will not be a heavy one. MILLER & Co. have opened an immense fashionable Hat Store in Broadway (No. 497), on rational principles. Their stock of Gentlemen's, Ladies', Misses', and Infant's Hats is almost limitless in its variety, and unsurpassed in beauty and elegance, and their "moderate prices" are really moderate.

AN ITEM FROM No. 513 BROADWAY.—Why are GENIN's dashing styles of DRESS HATS for Gentlemen like a series of popular resolutions? Because they are carried unanimously.
