

PREFACE

The precursor to Class T, Technology, was a series of subclasses prepared between 1903 and 1907. The first edition of Class T as a whole was published in 1910, the second in 1922, the third in 1937, the fourth in 1948, and the fifth in 1971. New editions were published in 1995, 1999, 2007, and 2009; each of these editions cumulated changes that were made since the previous edition was published. This 2010 edition cumulates changes made since the publication of the 2009 edition. For this edition, captions that had included the word "cookery" have been updated to the form "cooking," to correspond with changes that were made in Library of Congress Subject Headings in May 2010.

Classification numbers or spans of numbers that appear in parentheses are formerly valid numbers that are now obsolete. Numbers or spans that appear in angle brackets are optional numbers that have never been used at the Library of Congress but are provided for other libraries that wish to use them. In most cases, a parenthesized or angle-bracketed number is accompanied by a "see" reference directing the user to the actual number that the Library of Congress currently uses, or a note explaining Library of Congress practice.

Access to the online version of the full Library of Congress Classification is available on the World Wide Web by subscription to Classification Web. Details about ordering and pricing may be obtained from the Cataloging Distribution Service at

New or revised numbers and captions are added to the L.C. Classification schedules as a result of development proposals made by the cataloging staff of the Library of Congress and cooperating institutions. Upon approval of these proposals by the weekly editorial meeting of the Policy and Standards Division, new classification records are created or existing records are revised in the master classification database. Weekly lists of newly approved or revised classification numbers and captions are posted on the World Wide Web at Libby Dechman, senior subject cataloging policy specialist in the Policy and Standards Division, is responsible for coordinating the overall intellectual and editorial content of class T and its various subclasses. Kent Griffiths, assistant editor of classification schedules, is responsible for creating new classification records, maintaining the master database, and creating index terms for the captions.
