

OpenURL: Unlocking the Doors to Your Resources

With the ever expanding growth in the size and importance of eJournals, and the diverse array of systems hosting these collections, libraries are quickly adopting OpenURL to simplify link administration. Join your colleagues to discover how this developing technology is being used in libraries today. Featured speakers will explain OpenURL basics, review available products and solutions, and offer insight into integrating local collections with off-site eJournal systems. Get the federal perspective on OpenURL from
