General Information

The Army has relied upon lawyers since July 1775 when the Second Continental Congress selected Colonel William Tudor of Boston, a 25-year-old Harvard graduate, as the first Judge Advocate of the Army. From the Revolutionary War until World War I, the relatively small quotas of judge advocates required by the Army were filled with officers equipped for their duties with varying degrees of experience and training. Judge advocates were sometimes appointed directly from civilian life, but they were usually detailed from other branches of the Army.

Despite a long record of service by Army judge advocates, not until the beginning of World War II were efforts made to provide them specialized education in military law. In February 1942, as the uniformed lawyer's responsibilities increased in volume and complexity, specialized courses and continuing legal education for active duty judge advocates were begun at the National University Law School in Washington, D.C. The school moved in August 1942 to the University of Michigan Law School in Ann Arbor. By June 1944, over two-thirds of the active

Following the school's deactivation, a study on the administration of military justice demonstrated a requirement for continued formal training of military lawyers. Gone was the time when one could prepare for the practice of law in the Army by mastering a few books. Detailed instruction was needed for new judge advocates and continuing instruction on new developments in military law was required for all judge advocates. The passage of the Uniform Code of Military Justice in 1950 and the beginning of the Korean Conflict further emphasized this need. As a result, another temporary school to teach judge advocates was activated at Fort Myer, Virginia, in October 1950. It was decided, however, that a permanent school for Army lawyers must be established.

An offer from the University of Virginia was accepted by the Army and, in duty officers in the Judge Advocate General's Corps (JAGC) were graduates of the school. The School at Ann Arbor, intended as only a temporary one, was deactivated in 1946 during the general demobilization following World War II.

August 1951, The Judge Advocate General's School moved to Charlottesville, Virginia, where it shared existing UVA facilities. As the military community grew in the sixties, so did the needs of the JAG Corps. In 1975, the School moved to its own facility, adjacent to the UVA Law School and the Darden Graduate School of Business, in the graduate education oriented area of UVA known as the North Grounds. A significant qualitative improvement, the facility provided classrooms and seminar rooms with seating capacities from 10 to 200, two practice courtrooms, a library, a post exchange, 80 motel-type rooms for individuals attending continuing legal education courses and private offices for each faculty member.

Because of the ever-increasing teaching missions of the School, in January 1988 construction began on a 48,500 square foot addition to the existing building. In February 1990, the staff, faculty, and students moved into the new addition, which includes a 325-seat multi-purpose auditorium, a large general purpose classroom, and eight seminar rooms, two of which are adaptable as courtrooms. The addition also encompasses a television production studio, a computer learning center, a new post exchange, and additional office space. This new facility allows the School to continue providing top-quality legal education while increasing its student capacity.

The Judge Advocate General's School teaches the fundamentals of military law to attorneys newly commissioned as judge advocates and provides graduate legal education for career military officers. Numerous continuing legal education courses and seminars, lasting from three days to three weeks, are given annually. The School also administers an extensive correspondence course continuing legal education program. More than 3,000 attorneys attend resident courses during the year. Correspondence course enrollment exceeds 1,800.

Functions of the School are divided among four departments and one office: Academic; School Support; Developments, Doctrine and Literature; Guard and Reserve Affairs; and Information Management.

The Academic Department develops and conducts all of the School's resident courses. Additionally, the Academic Department is responsible for all nonresident instruction, including administration of correspondence courses and preparation of educational material for judge advocates attending Army reserve schools or serving in Reserve Component units. The department also manages development of legal subject educational materials for use Army-wide.

The School Support Department serves as the principal administrative staff, controlling administrative, personnel, logistical, and budget matters. The department is also responsible for conference planning, local claims and legal assistance service, and the JAG School Community Club.

The Developments, Doctrine and Literature Department is responsible for the initial development and subsequent review of military legal office designs for active number of personnel, grade structures, and equipment. Additionally, the department develops JAGC doctrine and prepares conceptual analysis studies to help ensure quality support for the total Army. The department edits and publishes the JAGC's two key professional publications, the Military Law Review and The Army Lawyer. The Army Law Library Service, within the department, manages the central acquisition of key library materials for 256 Army law libraries worldwide.

The Judge Advocate Guard and Reserve Affairs Department is the principal advisor to The Judge Advocate General on policy matters affecting the appointment, assignment, mobilization, and training of Reserve Component judge advocate officers. The department reviews and makes recommendations on applications for appointments in the JAGC, USAR, and for federal recognition of Army National Guard judge advocates; supervises assignments of Individual Mobilization Augmentees (IMA) and senior USAR judge advocates; provides management advice and assistance to all Reserve Component judge advocates; assists in the development and administration of resident and nonresident educational programs; and reviews

Army and Reserve Component forces. These designs must allow the Judge Advocate General's Corps to provide full legal services and legal support to the combat force. Each design includes the regulations affecting Reserve Component judge advocates for updating and changes.

The Information Management Office provides audio-visual and automation support to the School.

Commandant's Report

The Judge Advocate General's School continues to be the only government entity statutorily authorized (10 U.S.C. § 4315) to grant the degree of Master of Laws (LL.M.) in Military Law. Recognizing the demanding scholastic standards of the Graduate Course, in August 1988 the American Bar Association accepted its Accreditation Committee's site evaluation recommendation and concurred in the School's awarding of the LL.M. in Military Law.

The primary mission of the School is, and always will be, to provide the highest quality legal instruction to meet the professional development and continuing legal education needs of the Army Lawyer, whether Active or Reserve Component.

During the past academic year, The Judge Advocate General's School provided instruction to over 3,200 students in 47 resident courses. The 38th Graduate Course, which consisted of 61 students, including visiting military attorneys from Canada, Korea, Nigeria, and Thailand, was in residence from August 1989 through May 1990. Three Basic Courses were conducted the past academic year. A total of 198 Army officers and 4 International Military Students graduated from the 119th, 120th, and 121st Basic Courses. The continuing legal education courses offered by the military services.

The School continued to provide senior officers with legal orientations prior to their assumptions of command. Twenty-nine general officers attended General Officer Legal Orientation Courses and 250 battalion and brigade command designees attended four resident Senior Officers the School were attended by students from numerous government agencies, several foreign countries, and all of Legal Orientation Courses during the past academic year. Additionally, instructors from the School participated in 12 Pre-Command Courses conducted at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, for approximately 840 battalion and brigade command designees.

The faculty also taught courses in Europe, Korea, and the Pacific Command area to active duty and civilian attorneys. Between October 1989 and May 1990, the School provided continuing legal education to over 2,000 Reserve Component judge advocates in 22 regional population centers throughout the United States. Over 1,800 students were enrolled in the correspondence course program and over 2,400 video tapes were copied by the School and sent to legal offices throughout the world.

The Administrative and Civil Law Division continued to provide instruction to commanders and attorneys in a broad range of legal subjects. Each Graduate Course student received over 200 hours of core instruction, including federal litigation, installation law, claims, military personnel law, civilian personnel law, labor law, and standards of conduct. The division also offered 15 electives. Each Basic Course student received three weeks of instruction in all administrative and civil law subjects, including practical

Course at Fort Leavenworth; every other month in the Army Installation Management Course at Fort Lee, Virginia; and semiannually at the Army Management Staff College near Washington, D.C. The division teamed with the Criminal Law Division to teach a three-week Continuing Legal Education (CLE) program at a number of locations in the Pacific, including the Philippines, Korea, Okinawa, and Japan. One instructor was also a principal lecturer in tax conferences in the Far East. One instructor was a principal instructor at the Air Force environmental law CLE program conducted at Maxwell Air Force Base, a principal instructor at the U.S. Army Environmental Training Seminar, and a guest lecturer for the environmental law elective course at the U.S. Military Academy.

Branch, Administrative and Civil Law Division, which taught two JAG School CLE courses, continued to provide timely material and advice to 210 legal assistance offices worldwide. Five separate mailings were sent, with more than 35 publications distributed. Included among the materials published and distributed by the Branch were the Legal Assistance Guides series, which is an updated and expanded version of the former All States Guides, as well as numerous current tax publications. The Branch also distributed materials obtained from non-JAG School sources.

This was a particularly excellent year for Administrative and Civil Law guest speakers, including Ms. Maria L. Johnson, Vice Chairman, Merit Systems Protection Board; Ms. Kathleen Day Koch, General Counsel, Federal Labor Relations Authority; Judge James Harry Michael, Jr., United States District Court Judge for the Western District of Virginia; and Mr. Stuart M. Gerson, Assistant Attorney General for the Civil Division, United States Department of Justice. Judge Robert R. Merhige, Jr., United States District Court Judge for the Eastern District of Virginia, presented the 14th Charles L. Decker Lecture.

The Criminal Law Division continued to teach newly commissioned judge advocates in the Basic Course and experienced judge advocates attending the Graduate Course. The Basic Course students received five weeks of criminal law instruction, including a demanding clinical training program consisting of 10 trial technique exercises and two moot court presentations. The core curriculum for the Graduate Course familiarized all students with criminal law subjects during the first two quarters and included nine small-group seminars on various areas of evidence and procedure. Instruction in the final two quarters consisted of six advanced criminal law electives. Two sessions of the Criminal Trial Advocacy Course were offered to a total of 96 trial and defense counsel, and the Military Judge Course was offered to selected officers from all armed services, including the Reserve Components. The Criminal Law Division presented instruction to more than 170 judge advocates on recent criminal law developments during the 12th Criminal Law New Developments Course.

In addition to resident instruction, the Division taught criminal law at the monthly Pre-Command Course at Fort Leavenworth; at thirteen different reserve on-site locations; and at two separate week-long CLE's in U.S. Army Europe (USAREUR). The Division also presented a condensed advocacy course in USAREUR between the week-long CLE's.

The Division is updating deskbooks on Criminal Law subjects. In addition, the Division will soon be publishing a new DA Pamphlet 27-173, Trial Procedure.

Criminal Law instructors regularly contributed articles and short notes for publication in The Army Lawyer and the Military Law Review. Criminal Law instruction was complemented by an exceptional guest speaker program that included Chief Judge Robinson O. Everett, U.S. Court of Military Appeals; Mr. Joe B. Brown, U.S. Attorney for the Middle District of Tennessee; and Mr. John C. Lowe, a prominent criminal defense attorney; Special Agent Edward Sulzbach, a prominent expert on psychological profiling. Mr. John J. Douglass, Dean of the National College of District Attorneys, presented the 19th Kenneth J. Hodson Lecture in Criminal Law.

The Contract Law Division provided introductory instruction in government contract and fiscal law to students in all of the Basic Courses and comprehensive instruction to the students of the Graduate Course. In addition, the Division sponsored ten resident continuing legal education (CLE) courses and one CLE in USAREUR. These CLE's consisted of two fiscal law courses, which provided instruction on the statutory and regulatory controls applicable to the obligation and expenditure of appropriated funds; three Contract Attorneys Courses, which provided basic instruction in government contract law; the Installation Contracting Course, which addressed the major issues facing installation level contract attorney advisors such as accurately defining contract requirements and implementation of the Commercial Activities Program; the Government Materiel Acquisition Course, which provided instruction on the legal issues pertaining to the acquisition of major end items; the Contract Claims, Litigation, and Remedies Course, which focused on the litigation of government contract claims, protests, and disputes; and the Program Managers' Attorneys Course, a course which discussed contemporary issues involved in the acquisition of major programs and weapons systems.

The Contract Law Division also provided instruction in contract law to Reserve Component officers at five locations, as well as during the resident Judge Advocate Triennial Training and Phase IV of the Judge Advocate Officer Advanced Course.

Last year's article, Recent Developments in Contract Law--1988 in Review, was reprinted in Federal Publications, Inc., 1989 Yearbook of Procurement Articles. The Division also revised Department of the Army Pamphlet 27-153, Contract Law, which contains information and reference material for government contract law practitioners.

The International Law Division continued to focus on practical international legal issues that directly impact upon the Judge Advocate involved in military operations in both peacetime Inspector General's role in contract compliance and corporate ethics, international contracting, and government attorney ethics. The Seventh Annual Cuneo Lecture was presented by Professor Ralph C. Nash, Jr., Government Contracts Program, George Washington University, and the Second Major Frank B. Creekmore Lecture was delivered by Mr. Norman Augustine, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Martin Marietta Corporation. Another highlight of the 1990 Symposium was the discussion generated by the Contractor General Counsel Panel, which consisted of Mr. John E. Cavanagh, Partner, McKenna, Connor & Cuneo; Mr. David L. Hirsh III, Vice President and Senior Counsel, Competition Advocate, Department of the Navy; Professor John Cibinic, Jr., Government Contracts Program, George Washington University; Mr. Eldon H. Crowell, Crowell & Moring; and Ms. Janet Barrett, Assistant U.S. Attorney, Baltimore, Maryland.

In addition to writing short notes for publication, the instructors authored the Contract Law Division's annual article, Recent Developments in Contract Law--1989 and combat environments overseas. The goal of the Division is to ensure that military lawyers are knowledgeable in all aspects of operational law, a body of law which includes the law of war, and are able to participate effectively as members of the commander's operations team. Lessons learned from Operation Just Cause in Panama, Operation Urgent Fury in Grenada, from the British experience in the Falkland Islands, and from training exercises in Latin America, Europe, and the Middle East have been incorporated into the Graduate Course and CLE instruction.

Three Law of War Workshops were taught at the School, emphasizing the operational aspects of the law of war. The Fifth and Sixth Judge Advocate and Military Operations Seminars provided multidisciplinary, practical, legal guidance for Judge Advocates participating in training exercises, combat operations, and other overseas deployments. The Judge Advocate General's directive requiring that Judge Advocates be aware of the terrorist threat continued to be implemented through the Eleventh Legal Aspects of Terrorism Course. This course was attended by students from each of the four armed services, numerous attorneys from other federal agencies, and a representative from the Ministry of Defence of the Federal Republic of Germany.

Established by the Secretary of the Army in instructional requirements, the Division sent two instructors to Germany to assist in the presentation of the USAREUR Operational Law course and one instructor to the USAREUR International Law Conference. Instruction also was provided at the Army War College, the Command and General Staff College, TRADOC, the Federal Law Enforcement Training

Additional instruction was provided throughout the year to Army Reserve and National Guard attorneys at weekend training in Minneapolis, Minnesota; Little Rock, Arkansas; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Los Angeles, California; Nashville, Tennessee; Columbia, South Carolina; San Francisco, California; and Columbus, Ohio. The Seventh Waldemar A. Solf Lecture was presented by Ambassador Moshe Arad, Israel's ambassador to the United States.

The Developments, Doctrine and Literature Department obtained Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC) and Headquarters, Department of the Army approval of Tables of Organization and Equipment (TOE) for the U.S. Army Legal Services Command (LSC) and the U.S. Army Reserve Judge Advocate General's Service Organization (JAGSO). The LSC is the TOE organization to which defense counsel and military judges who support the combat force will be assigned. The new JAGSO mirrors the design of active Army legal sections and includes the expanded mission of providing full legal services and legal support for mobilization and the land defense of the continental United States. TRADOC also approved Manpower Requirements Criteria (MARC) studies for military occupational specialties 71D, Legal Specialist, 71E, Court Reporter, and 550A, Legal Administrator. The MARC study for area of concentration 55A, Judge Advocate, is being coordinated for submission to TRADOC. The Department will forward all studies to Headquarters, Department of the Army for final approval. Upon implementation, they will determine the number of personnel assigned to legal offices.

The Military Law Review and The Army Lawyer continued to provide quality articles that informed and educated judge advocates in the active Army and the Reserve Component force. Topics of Law Review articles included Mr. Eugene Fidell's critical analysis of certain Court of Military Appeals procedures; a response to Mr. Fidell's article by Chief Judge Robinson O. Everett; and Major Lawrence E. Rouse's assessment of the Army's efforts to dispose of the stockpile of chemical weapons. The Army Lawyer continued to publish numerous articles from the School's faculty, other judge advocates, and various other contributors. In June 1988, the Alumni Association presented its Professional Writing Award to Major Stephen E. Deardorff for his article Informed Consent, Termination of Medical Treatment, and the Federal Tort Claims Act, 115 Mil.

L. Rev. 1 (1987). Major Deardorff's article contained a proposal to revamp informed consent procedures in military hospitals.

The Army Law Library Service continued efforts to provide needed materials to approximately 260 Army law libraries worldwide. The Department continued to lead the School's celebration of the Bicentennial of the Constitution, organizing several activities during Constitution Week and publishing several Bicentennial-related articles in the School's publications.

In June 1989, the Judge Advocate Guard and Reserve Affairs Department sponsored resident Judge Advocate Triennial Training in Criminal Law as well as Phase II of the Judge Advocate Officer Advanced Course for 391 Army Reserve and National Guard judge advocates. The 1989 Judge Advocate Reserve Component Workshop was held in April for 150 selected Reserve and Active Component officers. The Department sponsored the School's CLE, on-site program in 22 regional population centers throughout the United States. Between September 1989 and May 1990, the on-site program provided continuing legal education to over 2,000 attendees representing all services and all components. The Department continued its past programs aimed at broadening the base of Army National Guard participation in The Judge Advocate General's School resident and nonresident training and successfully integrating newly commissioned U.S. Army Reserve judge advocates into Phase I of the Active Component Judge Advocate Officer Basic Course. Additionally, the Department continued to participate in recruiting efforts sponsored by the Judge Advocate General's Corps Professional Recruiting Office that permitted Reserve Component strengths to remain at record levels.

The School Support Department continued to provide total logistical and administrative support for staff, faculty, and guests of The Judge Advocate General's School. In September 1988, The Judge Advocate General's School Community Club held a reopening ceremony celebrating its completed expansion. The north balcony was enclosed, which increased the Club's size by 20 percent. Additionally, the larger facility was completely redecorated with a new grill kitchen and bar. The expansion and improvements have greatly enhanced the Club's ability to provide quality service.

During the next year, the School's existing library and basement will undergo substantial renovation. The renovation will increase available library shelf space, provide for archival storage, enlarge the library reading area, and allow for a computerized legal research area. A key focus of this renovation will be the Regimental Reading Room.

The ever changing nature of the law and the increasing demand for professional continuing legal education require that the School continue to expand and modernize. The staff and faculty will maintain the School's tradition of academic excellence. The School will always strive to meet the educational needs of the military lawyer.

The Judge Advocate General's School

Faculty

The Judge Advocate General's School curriculum provides continuing legal education for military lawyers. The Graduate Course was approved by the American Bar Association as a graduate law program on 25 February 1958. After an inspection in April 1988, the Accreditation Committee of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association sanctioned continued approval of the resident Judge Advocate Officer Graduate Course as a specialized program beyond the first degree in law.

The Judge Advocate General's School Academic Department faculty consists of 31 military attorneys and two officers not commissioned in the Judge Advocate General's Corps. Other attorneys on the School staff provide instruction periodically in areas of individual expertise. The faculty is supplemented by an extensive guest lecturer program. Faculty selections are based on academic qualifications, experience, and interest in teaching. All lawyers who are full-time faculty members have completed graduate programs in law beyond the first professional degree. Most faculty members have considerable practical experience in the areas of the law they teach. All of the instructors in the Criminal Law Division, for example, have substantial courtroom trial experience. Faculty members typically spend three years teaching, then return to other forms of legal practice. This rotation system aids in keeping instruction current and tied to the realities of military legal practice.

Faculty offices along the Academic Hallway have been upgraded and refurbished for the use of instructors in Criminal Law and Contract Law.

The Judge Advocate General's School and the Law School of the University of Virginia are co-located on the University's North Grounds.

Library

The Judge Advocate General's School Library provides a place for research and study to faculty and students. The facility specializes in federal and military legal matters and maintains an extensive set of legal periodicals. The library provides ready access to the primary research materials needed in military legal practice. An automated research capability has been added to assist the student in legal research. For more extensive research, students and faculty use the nearby Arthur J. Morris Law Library and the Alderman Library on the central grounds of the University.

emphasis on those areas most likely to be encountered during first duty assignments.

One-half of the course consists of criminal law. All areas of criminal law and criminal procedure are taught through platform instruction and practical exercises. The students participate in nine practical exercises and two practice courts-martial. These exercises confront specific courtroom evidentiary problems and prepare the student for duties as counsel in courts-martial. Basic Course students also participate in professional skills exercises structured to involve them in typical law office situations.

One-third of the course deals with the four substantive areas of administrative and civil law: personnel law, the law of installation command, claims, and legal assistance. Practical exercises in interviewing and counseling, will drafting, legal research, and opinion drafting are included.

The remainder of the course covers the military lawyer's role in government contract law and international law. The students are exposed to the federal acquisition process and basic legal concepts regarding the authority of the Government to enter into contracts. Practical exercises include analyzing common contract

The Basic Course

The Basic Course is offered three times each year. It is a 12-week introduction to the practice of law in the military. The first two weeks are taught at Fort Lee, Virginia. This military orientation training provides an overview of officer responsibilities and basic soldier skills. The final 10 weeks of the course are taught at The Judge Advocate General's School in Charlottesville. A transition week introduces the organization, function, and mission of the Judge Advocate General's Corps and defines the role of the military attorney. The remaining nine weeks are dedicated to substantive military law subjects and procedures, with problems. International law is divided into two major areas. The first deals with the Law of War and includes the Hague and Geneva Conventions and the Code of Conduct. Instruction is designed to provide the student with the expertise necessary to teach fellow soldiers the law of war. The second area concerns special legal problems encountered by soldiers who are deployed overseas. The instruction discusses the effect that foreign law and international agreements have on the Army, individual soldiers, and family members. A graduate of the Basic Course can begin active military practice with a minimum of "on-the-job" orientation.

The Graduate Course

The Graduate Course/LL.M. Program is an American Bar Association accredited graduate law program. Each class consists of between 60 and 75 students selected from the Army, Navy, Air force, and Marine Corps. All students are attorneys with about five to eight years of experience as practitioners. Attendance at the Graduate Course is competitive. A board of officers, convened by The Judge Advocate General of the Army selects the Army's attendees. The Graduate Course covers a full resident academic year. It prepares experienced attorneys for first-line supervisory duties and other positions of special responsibility within the Judge Advocate General's Corps. Students who successfully complete the course of instruction are awarded the degree of Master of Laws in Military Law.

Instruction in the Graduate Course varies in form, with lecture and Socratic dialogue predominating. Emphasis is placed on use of the seminar approach when possible and the case method where time and subject permit.

The Contract Law Division's core instruction is primarily technique-and-fact oriented. Its goal is to give students specific practical skills in reviewing government acquisition actions and solving problems arising under government contracts at military installations located in the United States. Contract Law electives provide students with specific instruction in such areas as solving typical contract law problems, litigation, disputes and remedies, negotiation, the commercial activities program, and weapons systems acquisition. These electives prepare students for contract law assignments upon graduation.

The goal of the International Law Division is to provide the students in-depth knowledge of the law of war and operational law. While most international law of peace subjects are taught as electives, the mandatory curriculum emphasizes those legal issues the JAG officer will encounter on training exercises and in combat. The instruction begins with the law of war and builds on that foundation with practical instruction on such subjects

A new outdoor student break area in memory of CPT Heather R. O'Mara has been built near the east entrance to the new addition.

Faculty members in the International Law and the Administrative and Civil Law divisions have moved to new offices in the School's addition, which was dedicated and officially opened on 1 May 1990.

as international agreements, the domestic and international law applicable to combat deployments, the legal review of operations plans, security assistance, and low intensity conflict. The course culminates in instruction concerning effective participation in training exercises and the manner in which the judge advocate may perform as a force multiplier on the commander's operations team in combat.

The Criminal Law

Division during the core presents a balanced offering of trial procedure and evidence. Its goal is to provide the necessary practical information in criminal law required of all career judge advocates. Criminal law electives include professional responsibility, advanced evidence, advanced trial procedure, advanced trial advocacy, substantive criminal law, and analysis of the military justice system. These electives prepare students for criminal law assignments upon graduation.

The Administrative and Civil Law Division presents over one-half of all Graduate Course core instruction in such diverse subjects as defensive federal litigation, law of military installations, military and civilian personnel law, labor relations, government information practices, claims, legal assistance, and selected additional topics. This division also presents two unique core courses: leadership and management, and communications. These courses are designed to teach each attorney to write, speak, lead, and manage resources more effectively. Many of the 15 Administrative Law electives expand upon core topics, such as military personnel law, federal litigation, and legal assistance. Other electives, such as environmental law, hospital law, and nonappropriated funds, give students an opportunity to learn more about subjects only briefly covered in the core curriculum.

Continuing Legal Education Courses

Each year the School offers more than 30 different specialized continuing legal education courses. These courses vary in length from three days to three weeks and provide practice-oriented continuing legal education for military attorneys. Most of the courses provide an update in a particular field of law, while some serve as advanced qualification courses for positions such as a military judge. Some courses are designed to acquaint nonlawyers with the role of the law in military activities. Over 3,200 students attend these resident courses annually.

Attendance at Resident Courses

Selection for attendance at the resident Graduate Course is made by a board of officers convened by The Judge Advocate General. Attendance at most resident continuing legal education courses is managed through the allocation of quotas to various Army commands. Attendance at the Military Judge Course is controlled by the U.S. Army Judiciary. The Judge Advocate General controls attendance at the Staff Judge Advocate Course. The Total Army Personnel Command (PERSCOM) selects officers for attendance at Senior Officers Legal Orientation Courses. The School normally does not accept individual applications from attorneys or judge advocate offices. Interested attorneys should request quota assignments through the training offices of their organizations.

Quotas are allocated on an annual basis. The size of most continuing legal education courses is controlled in order to ensure quality education through direct contact between instructors and students and through seminar discussion. In the spring of each year, the School furnishes Army major commands, other services, and selected federal agencies with a course schedule and a quota allocation by course. These commands, services, and agencies determine who will attend resident courses at the School; attendees must meet the course prerequisites specified in this bulletin. All funding and publication of travel orders are accomplished by the attendees' parent organizations.

The new Computer Learning Center features 30 work stations linked to a computer on the instructor's podium and to four laser printers.

Nonresident Program

General Information

The Nonresident Instruction Program is patterned after resident instruction and provides a means for students to increase their knowledge, acquire new skills, meet military education requirements, and improve job proficiency.

A subcourse consists of one or more lessons pertaining to a specific subject. Each lesson contains a practical exercise or has a study assignment in texts provided with the subcourse. When the student has completed all the lessons, the examination (which is also furnished with the subcourse materials) is taken.

A course consists of a series of subcourses or separate lessons designed to provide comprehensive instruction at a particular level or in a particular job-oriented subject area. An initial shipment of subcourses is sent upon enrollment in a particular course. Additional subcourses are mailed to a student automatically as he or she progresses through the course.

The nonresident program includes an officer Basic and Advanced Course, an introductory course for legal specialists, a course for legal noncommissioned officers, a course for Army warrant officers in the legal field, and an elective program for officers who have completed the Advanced Course. The detailed structure of each course and descriptions of individual subcourses follow.

Enrollment

Eligibility requirements and course prerequisites are listed at the beginning of each course.

Applications for enrollment should be submitted on DA Form 145. This form is available through normal military distribution. The DA Form 145 should be submitted through one of the following channels:

Individuals on extended active duty with the U.S. Army should submit applications to their commanding officer.

Unit members of the USAR not on extended active duty should send applications to the commanding officer who is the custodian of their military personnel records jacket.

Non-unit reservists should send applications to their Personnel Management Officer, U.S. Army Reserve Personnel Center, ATTN: DARP-OPS-JA, 9700 Page Boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri 63132.

Members of the Army National Guard not on extended active duty should submit applications through their commanding officer to the Army National Guard Operating Activities Center, Military Education Branch, ATTN: NGB-ARO-ME, Aberdeen Proving Ground, MD 21010-5470.

Members of any component of the Armed Forces of the United States, other than a component of the U.S. Army, should submit applications as prescribed by the individual's branch of service.

Civilian employees of the U.S. Government should submit applications through their supervisors. A copy of the employee's current job description should be attached to the enrollment application.

Enrollment applications must be complete and approved by the appropriate official. Applications that are incomplete or that do not indicate that a student meets all prerequisites for enrollment will be returned.

Students are not permitted to enroll in more than one course at a time.

Maintaining Enrollment

Annual credit hour requirements are listed in each course description below. Failure to meet annual requirements or to complete a course within the prescribed period will result in termination of enrollment.

Students may request an extension of time to complete the annual credit hour requirement, but such requests must be submitted before the end of their enrollment year and must contain justification for the extension. The normal demands of a student's duty assignment, legal practice, or occupation do not constitute adequate justification. A student will normally not be granted more than one 90 day extension while enrolled in a course. If enrollment is terminated for failure to meet annual credit hour requirements, a student is generally not permitted to re-enroll in the course for six months.

Equivalent Credit

Equivalent credit may be awarded for specific subcourses. Equivalent credit will be granted upon satisfactory completion within five years of enrollment of essentially the same instruction at another military or civilian institution and for completion of individual subcourses covering the same material.

Equivalent credit is given for completion of the following resident courses at The Judge Advocate General's School:

| Resident Course | Equivalent Credit for Subcourse |
|--|---|
| Claims Course or Claims Service Seminar | JA 25, JA 128 |
| Contract Attorneys Course | JA 12, JA 112 |
| Fiscal Law Course | JA 115 |
| Federal Labor Relations Course | JA 23, JA 125A, JA 125B |
| Legal Assistance Course | JA 26, JA 129 |
| Administrative Law for Military Installations | JA 124, JA 126, JA 127 |
| Military Judge Course | JA 131, JA 132, JA 133, JA 134, JA 137 |
| Law of War Workshop | JA 142 |

Constructive credit may be granted for unique, in-depth, specialized experience. Regular military or civilian legal experience will not qualify for constructive credit.

Normally, there will be no constructive or equivalent credit granted for JA 150 or JA 151 -- the writing requirements. The only circumstance in which credit will be considered is when the student has prepared a scholarly article which otherwise would meet the requirements of JA 150 had the student requested approval of the topic at the time he was preparing the article.

Resident credit is awarded for completion of Advanced Course phases in residence at TJAGSA.

Awards of resident credit will apply toward the annual enrollment requirements for the enrollment year in which the award is made.

Awards of constructive and equivalent credit, and USAR school credit for common military subjects does not count toward annual credit hour requirements.

Written applications for constructive or equivalent credit may be submitted to: Commandant, The Judge Advocate General's School, ATTN: JAGS-ADN-C, Charlottesville, VA 22903-1781.

Information for Reserve and National Guard Officers

Judge advocates in the Army Reserve and Army National Guard may fulfill military educational requirements for promotion through correspondence course programs. Completion of the Reserve Component Judge Advocate Officer Basic Correspondence Course (JAOBC) meets the requirements for promotion to captain. Completion of the Judge Advocate Officer Advanced Correspondence Course (JAOAC) is required for promotion to major.

Members of the USAR and ARNGUS not on active duty may earn retirement points by participating in the Army Correspondence Course Program. One retirement point is earned for successful completion of three credit hours of correspondence course work. The School forwards statements of credit hours earned by Reserve students to the servicing data processing centers within two weeks after the end of the Reservist's retirement year. Retirement points for Army National Guard personnel are computed by National Guard Headquarters from copies of subcourse completion reports the School sends to students through their enrollment channels.

Reserve Component officers who wish to attend resident continuing legal education (CLE) courses at The Judge Advocate General's School must submit applications and obtain quotas prior to attendance. USAR officers submit applications on DA Form 1058 and National Guard officers submit applications on NGB Form 64. USAR unit members obtain quotas through unit channels and USAR Individual Mobilization Augmentees (IMA) obtain quotas from the JAGC PMO at the Army Reserve Personnel Center (ARPERCEN) in St. Louis. National Guard officers forward applications to the ARNG Military Education Branch, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland. All applicants must indicate height, weight, and date of birth on their applications plus pertinent course numbers listed elsewhere in this bulletin. Information copies of applications should be forwarded to: Commandant, The Judge Advocate General's School, U.S. Army, ATTN: JAGS-GRA, Charlottesville, VA 22903-1781. Individuals enrolled in JAOAC through the USAR School system should notify the Guard and Reserve Affairs Department to facilitate record-keeping and issuance of course completion certificates. USAR schools offer branch immaterial Officer Advanced Courses Phases I, III and V on a rotational basis. The Judge Advocate General's School offers Phases II, IV and VI of the JAOAC in residence each summer on a rotational basis. National Guard officers will obtain JAOAC resident phase quotas from the Military Education Branch as described above; all USAR officers will obtain quotas from the JAGC PMO at ARPERCEN.

Individuals who desire more information about the Army Judge Advocate Reserve program should contact the Director, Judge Advocate Guard and Reserve Affairs Department at (804) 972-6380.

Correspondence Course Descriptions

Independent Enrollment

An applicant who does not meet the eligibility requirements for enrollment in one of the judge advocate correspondence courses or who wishes only to take selected subcourses to further his or her professional development may enroll in specific subcourses provided the applicant's duties or prospective duties require training that may be accomplished by means of such subcourse(s). Enrollment as an independent student requires that the student complete 75 credit hours per year or the individual subcourse, whichever is less.

Information, such as a job description, that shows the relation between the requested subcourse(s) and the applicant's duty assignment must accompany the application.

The following policies apply to all applicants for independent enrollment:

a. Students will normally be required to complete a basic course subcourse in an area before enrolling in the advanced course subcourse (For example, a student will normally be required to complete JA 12 before enrolling in JA 112).

b. Non-attorney civilian employees of Army legal offices will be required to complete the Law for Legal Specialists course before enrolling in any other subcourses.

c. Subcourses contained in the elective program are open only to officers who have completed the Advanced Course.

d. JA 150 and 151, the legal research and writing requirements for the Advanced Course are not open for independent enrollment.

e. Enlisted soldiers and Noncommissioned Officers will normally be required to enroll in entire courses and to follow specific courses of study.

Professor Doctor Walter Odersky, President of the German Supreme Court, addressed the 38th Graduate Class.
