August 11, '64

Mother was telling me at dinner to-day, how glad she was when peace was declared after the war of 1812 &c. She said her father told them he hoped they never would be compelled to see the horrors of war, as he had seen them in the Revolution.

Mother's brothers were in the army at Brooklyn in 1812. She told me that her father came down to visit them & to bring them some things & she came with him. The
