

^{gradual} for the emancipation of slaves clause, ^{and} Mr. Wythe could not be present as being a member of the judiciary department, and Mr. Jefferson was absent on the legation to France: but there wanted not in that assembly men of virtue enough to propose, & talents to vindicate this clause. but they saw that the moment of doing it with success was not yet arrived, and that an unsuccessful effort, as too often happens, would only rivet still closer the chains of bondage, and retard the moment of delivery to this oppressed description of men. What a stupendous, what an incomprehensible machine is man! who can endure toil, famine, stripes, imprisonment & death itself in vindication of his own liberty, and the next moment be deaf to all those motives whose power supported him thro' his trial, and inflict on his fellow men a bondage, one hour of which is fraught with more misery than ages of that which he rose in rebellion to oppose. but we must wait with patience the workings of an over-ruling providence, & hope that that is preparing the deliverance of these our suffering brethren. When the measure of their tears shall be full, when their groans shall have involved heaven itself in dark-ness, doubtless a god of justice will awaken to their distress, and by dif-fusing light & liberality among their oppressors, or at length by his exterminating thunder, manifest his attention to the things of this world, and that they are not left to the guidance of a blind fatality.
