The first edition of Class Z, Bibliography and Library Science, was published in 1902, the second in 1910, the third in 1926, the fourth in 1959 (reprinted with supplementary pages in 1965), and the fifth in 1980. A 1995 edition cumulated all additions and changes that had been made since 1980. The 2001 edition, which cumulated changes made between 1995 and 2001, was the first to be published under the expanded title Bibliography. Library Science. Information Resources, and the first to include subclass ZA, Information Resources (General), which was approved for use at the Library of Congress in 1996. The 2006 and 2009 editions cumulated changes made between 2001-2006 and 2006-2009, respectively. Annual editions were issued beginning Classification numbers or spans of numbers that appear in parentheses are formerly valid numbers that are now obsolete. Numbers or spans that appear in angle brackets are optional numbers that have never been used at the Library of Congress but are provided for other libraries that wish to use them. In most cases, a parenthesized or angle-bracketed number is accompanied by a "see" reference directing the user to the actual number that the Library of Congress currently uses, or a note explaining Library of Congress practice.

Access to the online version of the full Library of Congress Classification is available on the World Wide Web by subscription to Classification Web. Details about ordering and pricing may be obtained from the Cataloging Distribution Service at:

New or revised numbers and captions are added to the LC Classification schedules as a result of development proposals made by the cataloging staff of the Library of Congress and cooperating institutions. Upon approval of these proposals by the editorial meeting of the Policy, Training & Cooperative Programs Division, new classification records are created or existing records are revised in the master classification database. Lists of newly approved or revised classification numbers and captions are posted on the World Wide Web at:

Libby Dechman, senior cataloging policy specialist in the Policy, Training & Cooperative Programs Division, is responsible for coordinating the overall intellectual and editorial content of class Z. Kent Griffiths, assistant editors of classification schedules, is responsible for creating new classification records, maintaining the master database, and creating index terms for the captions.
