Epitaph for the Late American Republic

"Here lies a people, who, in attempting to liberate the negro, lost their own freedom."

Greeley About.
This drab-coated, white-lipped Philosopher arrived in this city this morning, unannounced by guns, drums or heraldry of any kind. The man that made Lincoln President is thus noticed, and yet he pines not. He can blow his own trumpet when he needs, and is getting along very well for a backwoods printer who, a few years ago, blundered into New York and got a "sit" at a news case. The country is getting too limited now for his expanding genius. He had an engagement to lecture in St. Louis, but somehow in his Western tour did not quite reach that city. He leaves to-night for Pennsylvania. Our dear Howard.

When will Honors Cease?
CONKLE, the celebrated test medium, opened the eyes strangely wide of several skeptics at his rooms at the Johnson last night. Some old hardshells who had "exploded every other humbug" were sent reeling out of the room with unbelief entirely knocked out of them. Why not our city clerk call upon CONKLE. They are commanded to "prove all things and hold fast that which is good." If there is nothing good that will be honoring to hold fast to. Try it gentlemen.

Card Photographs.
"I have found out a gift for my son."
There is a new thing under the sun, and a very pretty thing. Photograph miniatures, "true as the sun," in sizes from a lip, dime, to a quarter of a dollar, are now taken on prepared paper in cards of a dozen or more to the sheet, then gummed on the back like postage stamps and cut up when needed. They are easily placed upon calling cards, business cards, books, letters, in hats, on pocket books, and hid away in lockers and watch cases. They are cheap as well as neat. Every body can afford to have his own and family likenesses to supply their friends. RYAN furnishes them at one dollar for a single dozen and cheaper in larger quantities. When once seen, every family will have a supply.

Denial.
Miss CAROLINE RICHINGS, with dignity and emphasis, denies in toto the slander circulated against her that she catered to secessionists and stamped on the glorious Stars and Stripes. The denial was hardly necessary to those who know her.

Notto for the Confederate States.
That posterity may never doubt concerning the true nature and character of the compact styled "THE CONFEDERATE STATES OF NORTH AMERICA," that no argument may be deduced from the motto upon the coat of arms or the banner of the Cotton Confederacy, in favor of a "perfect" or perpetual "Union," such as is suggested by the "E Pluribus Unum" adopted by our fathers, we propose to the new Confederation, as they seem induced to adopt substantially the Constitution and most of the laws of the United States, that they also adopt the heraldic emblem of the United States, striking out only the offensive and inappropriate E Pluribus Unum and in compliance to the ablest man, and the greatest traitor, in the South, substituting this for the more significant and expressive words "E Pluribus Unum."

What the Southern Confederacy Propose.
Senator SLIDWELL, one of the shrewdest and ablest of the seceding Senators, can speak of the Gulf States with perhaps more authority than any other man. In his farewell speech to the Senate he said:
"We will adopt all laws not locally inapplicable or incompatible with our new relations; we will recognize the obligations of all existing treaties—those respecting the African Slave trade included. We shall be prepared to assume our just proportion of the national debt; to account for the cost of all the forts and other property of the United States, which we have been compelled to seize in self-defense, and to support our share of such expenditures, but no greater than in other sections; and, above all, we shall, as well from the dictates of natural justice and the principles of international law as if pecuniary interests, recognize the right of the inhabitants of the valley of the Mississippi and its tributaries to its free navigation; we will guarantee to them a free transit of all agricultural productions without tax duty or toll of any kind; the free transit from foreign countries of every specie of merchandise; subject only such regulation as may be absolutely necessary to the production of any revenue system we may establish, and for the purposes of police."

Secession in Court.—A New Orleans bank having brought a suit against a prominent St. Louis banker to recover a large sum, the banker has filed an answer in the Circuit Court, asking that the suit may be dismissed, on the ground that Louisiana has seceded from and revolted against the United States, and her citizens have no right to maintain a suit in the Courts of Missouri. This defence, if persisted in to the last resort, would carry the question of the right of State to secede to the Supreme Court of the United States for settlement.

J. HEMPHILL JONES.—This efficient officer, a native of Delaware, one of the most experienced clerks in the Treasury Department, who carried the orders of Secretary Dix to the office of the revenue cut McClelland, at New Orleans, has not yet returned. It is apprehended by the Department that he has been arrested by the rebels.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE CHIEF JUSTICE.—The President yesterday stated that he was warmly in favor of the Chicago project, for which the Senate appropriated $300,000 in an amendment to the deficiency bill. The House has refused to concur in this amendment, and non-renewance has caused the appointment of a second committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses.

Who's Who?—Hon. GEORGE C. CRAWFORD, who reported the ordinance of secession which was adopted by the Georgia Convention, was a member of General Taylor's Cabinet, and was compelled to resign on account of his complicity in the celebrated Galpin case while holding that honorable position.

Strangers in the City can see Blitt and the learned canaries Friday evening at the McLeod.

CRITTENDEN AND DOUGLASS TO TENNESSEE.
The following dispatch appears in the Tennessee papers:
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.
To W. H. POLK, Columbia:
Your dispatch received. Our hopes for the Union firm. Take courage from Virginia. Save Tennessee, and the Union is saved.
J. CRITTENDEN,
S. A. DOUGLASS.

DANGEROUS EXPERIMENT BY A FRENCHMAN.
"Lady"—"Dear me, Count, you don't look well to-day." Count—"Oh! I have done your fooling—I have wash my neck!"

Washington Dispatches to the World.

Some prominent southern seceding politicians profess to have been advised that the South Carolina authorities are not satisfied with the manner in which she has been ignored in the Montgomery convention. She is the first to see that all revolution in motion, she claimed unusual honors from the provisional government.

AN INDIGNANT EX-CONGRESSMAN.
Ashmore, the South Carolina ex-congressman, has written to the Postoffice department, protesting against the importance and publicity given his letter, asking permission to use the franking privilege.

HE SAYS HE NEVER COULD CONSENT, DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY, TO DO ANYTHING WHICH WOULD IMPLY fealty or allegiance to this government. He says that he made application for permission to frank documents under a provision of the ordinance of secession. On the whole he declines to use the privilege.

THE PUBLISHER OF A SOLEBLY EMPLOYED Drowne, late editor of the Constitution, is now at Montgomery looking after the interests of the new paper, should be fail to get a foreign mission from the new confederacy.

THE FOLLOWING FROM FORNER'S PRESS, IS A specimen of the rejoicing over Tennessee:
ALL HAIL, TENNESSEE!
Tennessee, the State in which JACKSON sleeps, has voted that Union must be preserved. Just before the election in Tennessee, General Polk, the brother of ex-president Polk, sent a telegraphic dispatch to Judge DOUGLASS that the secessionists were representing that all hope of compromise was abandoned in Washington, and that Judge Douglas to get Governor Crittenden to join in his reply. To this dispatch Messrs. Crittenden and Douglas replied, "Our hopes of the Union never were abandoned. Tennessee is safe. Save Tennessee and the Union is safe."

TO WHICH COL. POLK RESPONDS ON THE DAY after the election:
COLUMBIA TENN., Feb. 9, 1861.
S. A. DOUGLASS and J. CRITTENDEN, Washington. Tennessee has gone overwhelmingly for the Union. There will not be twenty secessionists in the Convention. Tennessee is saved! Save the Union. Tennessee is saved!

THE UNION MEN OF TENNESSEE DELEGATION of the House were despatched as follows from Nashville, the capital of the State:
"Union candidates reported elected in Shelby county. No secessionist elected so far as heard of. The Convention itself probably will be held in this glorious result is the subject of much rejoicing here."

THE NEWS FROM VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE, and the bold attitude of Kentucky, and brightening prospects of things here, carried terror to the hearts of the enemies of the Union, and I believe that if they would let the people loose in Louisiana, Alabama, Texas, Mississippi, and Georgia, they would see the splendid rebuke administered to the leaders of disunion by the States of North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky.

INTERESTING INTERVIEW.
When Mr. SICKLES to day offered a resolution to observe the 22d of Feb. as a national holiday, in commemoration of WASHINGTON, and that Mr. EVERETT should be invited to deliver an address in the hall of the House, Mr. GARNET offered an amendment to add after the name of Washington "the illustrious Virginian and slaveholder." Mr. JOHN COCHRANE, of New York, always ready for a joke, especially at the expense of these secessionists, moved to add "and Emancipator!" Of course, that brought the House down, and the original resolution was adopted.

MR. JOHNSON IN CHASE AFTER LINCOLN.
From the Ohio Statesman.
The hands and one applicant for the office of Marshal of the United States for the Southern district of Ohio, will do well to look out and keep moving. The present incumbent is in the city and having made about all that he can out of the present administration, will no doubt turn his attention to "honorable old Abe," with remarkable solicitude do the agreeable to the President elect. His paper, the National Democrat, gave up the struggle on yesterday morning, thus driving before him, which was fixed for the 4th of March. Having thus grounded the "arms of his rebellion," how can it be otherwise than that Mr. LINCOLN will feel kindly towards Mr. Johnson, who, let whatever King may reign "will be the Vicar of Bray" if he can!

A PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.
Whereas objects of interest to the United States require that the Senate should be convened at twelve o'clock on the fourth of March next, to receive and consider the communications which may be made to it on the part of the Executive:
Now, therefore, I, James Buchanan, President of the United States, have considered it to be my duty to issue this my proclamation, declaring that an extraordinary session requires the Senate of the United States to convene for the transaction of business at the Capitol, in the city of Washington, on the fourth day of March next, at twelve o'clock on the fourth of March, and that they shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body as hereby required to take notice.

DIPHTHERIA—DIPHTHERIA—FOR THE cure of that dreadful disease—Diphtheria—Perry Davis' Pain Killer is a specific, if resorted to in time. It should be used mixed with water in a glass, and the throat washed with the same. It is sold by Dr. Watson, writes, which is under date of Nov. 23, 1860, from Washburn Co., Ohio.

THE INVALID WILL FIND IT BENEFICIAL to give a fair trial to Dr. R. O. RICHARDSON'S CONCENTRATED SHERRY WINE. It is a powerful tonic, which brings up and relieves the constitution of all invalids, and is a specific cure for all ailments.

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY.
DR. JAMES CLARKE'S CONCENTRATED SHERRY WINE PILLS—Prepared from a Prescription of Sir J. Clarke, M.D., Physician Extraordinary to the Queen. This invaluable medicine is unrivaled in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstructions, and is a specific cure for all ailments.
