In Brief

The 2020 Census is Counting On You

April 1 is Census Day, the reference point for questions on the 2020 count. Census results play a crucial part in determining how government entities allocate hundreds of billions of dollars each year for services on which communities rely. But certain groups of people historically have been undercounted in the census. We want to make sure that the people NLS and its network libraries serve—people who are blind or visually impaired, or who have a disability that makes reading regular print difficult—are aware of, and participate in, the 2020 census.

A few upcoming milestones to keep in mind: On March 12, the Census Bureau will mail households an invitation to respond to the census. For the first time, households will have three ways to respond: online, by calling a toll-free number, or by mail. The questionnaire takes less time to complete than drinking a cup of coffee. In mid-April, census workers will begin visiting homes that haven't responded to collect information in person.

Visit www.census.gov for more information about the census, or contact your network library for help locating additional resources.

Accessible Tax Documents

Tax season has begun. The IRS will post accessible tax documents, including fillable PDFs and downloadable braille and large-print files, on its website at <https://www.irs.gov/forms-pubs/accessible-irs-tax-products> as they are developed. Watch the main NLS website, at www.loc.gov/nls, for updates on when accessible-format tax documents become available from the IRS.

NLS Print/Braille Order Forms Discontinued

Due to production issues that have affected the timely delivery of the braille version of Braille Book Review, we are temporarily working with a new producer. Our goal is to allow us to deliver the publication more promptly to our readers. Issues produced on the temporary contract, beginning with the January–February 2020 issue, will not include print/braille order forms. Patrons can continue to order books by contacting their network libraries directly via phone or email. Network library contact information is available at the back of this publication.

Sports Schedules

Wondering when to catch your favorite team? NLS produces braille sports schedules for Major League Baseball, the National Basketball Association, the National Football League, the National Hockey League, and the Women's National Basketball Association. These schedules can be subscribed to as though they were magazines by contacting your local network library. Once you've subscribed to a schedule, you'll receive a fresh copy every year, released as soon as the information becomes available.

Westerns

Looking for every book we have with a Western theme? Audio and braille titles in one hundred subjects—including Westerns—are available for immediate download from BARD (Braille and Audio Reading Download) website, <https://nlsbard.loc.gov>, or through the BARD Mobile app. (Braille titles are only available through the BARD Mobile app if you are using an iOS device.) You can search using the “Browse by Subject” pulldown menu under “Find Books” and choose the titles you're most interested in.

In Brief

For example, you can find the more than two thousand Westerns titles that NLS has by choosing “Western Stories” in the pulldown. Using the online catalog Voyager and the text-only interfaces, you can search by these subject categories as well, using the same choices listed in the BARD pulldown. And remember, your local network library staff is always there to help you search for the category of books you want.

Exhibit Schedule

NLS maintains an active exhibit schedule, promoting library service for the blind and print disabled at conventions around the country. Some of the events we attend target service providers such as social workers and medical professionals, while others are open to a broader community. If you attend any of the following consumer events in 2020, stop by our booth in the exhibit hall and let us know how we’re doing.

- American Council of the Blind, Schaumburg, IL, July 3–10
- National Federation of the Blind, Houston, TX, July 14–19
- Disabled American Veterans, Dallas, TX, August 1–4
- Blinded Veterans Association, Washington, DC, August 12–16
- American Legion National Conference, Louisville, KY, August 28–September 3

For a full schedule for this year, visit us online at www.loc.gov/nls/about/news/events.

InfoEyes Librarians are Here to Help You

InfoEyes is a cooperative project in which NLS network librarians from four states—Massachusetts, Minnesota, Maryland, and Washington State—work together to respond to patrons’ questions over the Internet. InfoEyes assists a diverse population, including patrons of NLS libraries, students, teachers, parents who are helping children with homework, and curious general readers.

Anyone with a computer and an Internet connection can visit the InfoEyes website at www.InfoEyes.org. Upon accessing the site, visitors may ask a question by email. To email a question, select that link on the web page, enter your email address and question, and select the “Ask” button. The InfoEyes librarians welcome reference questions on any topic, whether to fill informational needs for school or work or simply to satisfy your curiosity.

Newsstand

The following announcement may be of interest to readers. The National Library Service for the Blind and Print Disabled reserves the right to publish announcements selectively, as space permits. The item mentioned below is not part of the NLS program, and its listing does not imply endorsement or support. Prices and details about listed items were correct at the time of compilation but are subject to change.

A Growing Number of Movies and TV Shows are Audio Described

Are you a movie buff or a television fan? The Audio Description Project provides a constantly growing list of films and shows, including those available from online streaming platforms, with audio-described titles. Check out their website at <https://acb.org/adp/index.html> to browse lists of available titles, or follow them on social media at <https://twitter.com/ADPwebmaster> or <https://www.facebook.com/acbadp> to find out each week’s newest additions.

Books for Adults

All books listed in this issue of Talking Book Topics (TBT) have been distributed to cooperating libraries, though TBT does not include every book that has been produced by NLS. The complete collection, containing a wide range of fiction and nonfiction books, including biographies, classics, westerns, mysteries, and romances, can be found by visiting www.loc.gov/nls.

Registered users may also download all titles and magazines from the NLS Braille and Audio Reading Download (BARD) service at <https://nlsbard.loc.gov>. The free BARD Mobile app is available from the App Store, Google Play, and Amazon's Appstore for reading talking books on your personal smart phone or tablet. To learn more about the collection or to sign up for BARD, contact your local cooperating library. Regional library telephone numbers and email addresses are listed on the last pages of this magazine.

Books within the headings Adult Fiction and Adult Nonfiction are listed alphabetically by subject category, author last name, and title. For example the title War and Peace by Leo Tolstoy would be listed in Adult Fiction under the Classics subject category and by the last name Tolstoy.

Note: A notice may appear immediately following the book description to indicate occurrences of violence, strong language, or descriptions of sex. The word "some" before any of these terms indicates an occasional or infrequent occurrence, as in "some strong language." Commercial audiobooks for which NLS does not have access to the print book may display the notice "unrated," which means that the book may or may not contain violence, strong language, or descriptions of sex.
