

Hebraic Section, AMED Division
Hebrew Language Table
In cooperation with the Embassy of Israel
Present

'Golgotha'

A play written by Shmuel Refael
Sephardic memories of the Holocaust
Lecture & selected readings

FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 2007 - 12:00 NOON
MARY PICKFORD THEATER
JAMES MADISON BUILDING
LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

Israeli actor, Victor Attar, playing Albert Salvado, a Greek Holocaust survivor, will read selectively from the play. Mr. Salvado relives the atrocities of the concentration camps as he prepares for his long awaited dream to come true - the honor to light the torch at the Holocaust commemoration ceremony at Yad Vashem in Jerusalem. The estrangement many Judeo-Spanish speaking Jews felt is captured in the play through the inner-turmoil experienced by Albert in the isolation of his own, dark apartment where he has nothing but a photograph to remind him of the family he lost as the only survivor of his household. The playwright, Dr. Shmuel Refael, Director, Center for Ladino Studies, Bar Ilan University, will introduce the play. Following the readings, Dr. Refael, Geula Jeffet Attar (director) and Victor Attar will take part in a panel discussion of the play.

ADA accommodations 5 days in advance
(202) 707-6362 TTY or ADA@loc.gov
For more information call Gail Shirazi 202-707-9897
Program is free and open to the public

